Skyrocketing Population Has Outstripped the Increase in the World Food Production

No Quorum So Baker Case Is Again Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Absenteeism by both Democrat and Republican senators blocked a GOP effort today to force pre-election hearings on a political pay-off charge in the Bobby C. Baker case.

Only the chairman, Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., showed up at a closed meeting of the nine member Senate Rules Committee called by Jordan.

Cooper had planned to offer a motion to have Baker, former Ambassador Matthew H. McGloeskey, and other key figures involved in the pay-off charge, summoned to testify later this week or the first of next week.

But, without a quorum of five members, no business could be transacted.

After a brief discussion of the situation, Jordan and Cooper said they would get in touch with other members of the committee during the week to find out the prospects of getting absent senators to return here next week.

Jordan was asked by newsmen if he would urge his absent Democratic colleagues to come back.

"I'm not going to ask them to do anything," he replied, adding it was up to the members to decide for themselves.

However, Jordan said, "I'd like mighty well to get this thing cleared up."

Cooper said he would get in touch with Sens. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Carl R. Curtis, R-Neb., the absent GOP members of the committee, and urge them to return for early hearings.

He said he saw no reason why the committee couldn't complete hearings in October on the pay-off charge, brought by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., if a quorum could be obtained.

Hurricane No Longer Poses Destruction

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Hilda — never a lady and now no longer a hurricane — spent the weekend in Louisiana, leaving behind death, destruction and misery.

President Johnson quickly declared the region eligible for federal disaster aid.

Thirty-five deaths were attributed to the storm, which also wiped out nearly half of Louisiana's $100-million sugar cane crop — almost ready for harvest — and caused millions more in property damage.

The last remnants of Hilda — now only a weak low-pressure cell — were being pushed into the Gulf of Mexico around the resort town of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., early today by a strong surge of cold air from the north.

High winds and heavy rains from Hilda knifed across southern Georgia and into South Carolina.

Larose, a fishing town of 5,000 on the banks of Bayou Lafourche 50 miles southwest of New Orleans, was struck by one of the many torrid winds.

Twenty-one persons were killed and nearly 200 injured.

Death Is Subject of Rotary Meet

Hope Rotarians heard what was described by President George Peck, as the best program of the year last week when they were privileged to have Captain Bill Miller, Chief of the Drivers License Division of the Arkansas State Police of Little Rock, as their speaker.

"With the ever increasing accident and death rate on our highways, traffic safety should be our number one concern," said Captain Miller. He pointed out that for the year 1963 Arkansas alone reported 31,540 traffic accidents that cost 465 lives and $76,000,000 in property damage, medical bills and loss of time. During this same period Hempstead County recorded 69 traffic accidents, with 6 fatalities and a cost of $1,155,000. Through September 1964 Hempstead has already reported 70 accidents that has taken 8 lives according to Captain Miller.

"Records show that 85 percent of all traffic accidents are caused by the drivers themselves, and with more and more automobiles and trucks traveling our highways each year the number of accidents will increase, unless all law enforcement agencies throughout the state are given additional tools with which to work," said Captain Miller.

These tools, according to Captain Miller, are Driver Education programs for all of our High Schools, rigid drivers license tests before issuance of licenses, a central point where all licenses are officially issued and a central violations throughout the state. Under this proposed licensing plan the State Revenues offices in each County would issue a temporary license, which the driver could use until a more permanent one could be issued. The permanent one, issued for one or two years, would be issued if the driver's record showed him to be a safe driver, within the limits of traffic violations.

"This would tend to weed out our habitual traffic offenders and help clear our highways of these hazards," said Captain Miller. He closed his remarks by asking all Rotarians to give serious consideration to these problems and lend assistance in any way possible toward helping correct them.

George Robinson arranged the program. Guests were Rotarians, O. W. Watkins of Prescott, Byron Thompson of Nashville and Rev. Arthur Terry of Texarkana. Captain Miller was accompanied by Sgt. Gene Donham of Little Rock; Reverend Jerry King of Prescott was a guest of Rev. Bob Wilbitt and Paul Klipsch had Bob Moers of Hope and Joe Holland of Little Rock as his guests.

Hurricane No

Jeanerette when a recreation center — being used to house hurricane evacuees — collapsed.

Three traffic deaths were attributed to Hilda's winds and accompanying rain by authorities. A repairman working on downed electric lines in New Orleans was electrocuted and a woman drowned in a rain-swollen drainage ditch.

More than 200 persons were injured — 175 at Larose alone. Flash floods drove scores from their homes in the outskirts of Baton Rouge, the state's capital city, Sunday.

They joined thousands of refugees from the bayou country where most of the French-speaking Cajuns live.

Baton Rouge recorded 18 inches of rain. As Hilda moved into southwest Mississippi and then curved eastward, she left 12 inches of rain at McComb.

A freak windstorm — called Hilda's backlash by the Weather Bureau — struck New Orleans' lakefront by surprise Sunday afternoon. Winds in excess of 90 m.p.h. whirled across 26-mile wide Lake Pontchartrain and pounded the seawalls. Waves of six feet or more crashed over the seawalls, crossed Lake Shore Drive and flooded fashionable

No Quorum So

"I'm disappointed we could not get a quorum," he said.

The Baker investigation, reopened last week by the committee on orders from the Senate, packs a potential political wallop because of Baker's close association with President Johnson when Johnson was the Democratic leader of the Senate and Baker was secretary to the Senate Democrats.

The Rules Committee probed Baker's affairs last summer and found him "guilty of many gross improprieties."

The payoff charge, leveled by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Dele., in a Senate speech Sept. 1, led to new hearings last Thursday and Friday, but Baker, McCloskey, Williams and other key figures were not called.

Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater and other Republicans have accused the Democrats of a coverup and a whitewash in the Baker case under pressure from the White House.

Today's committee meeting, behind closed doors, was called by Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., to decide on Republican demands that public hearings on Williams' charge be held promptly. But since Congress has adjourned, there is some doubt a quorum of the committee's nine members — six Democrats and three Republicans — can be obtained.

Williams charged that McCloskey, a Philadelphia contractor who won the contract for construction of the District of Columbia Stadium with a low bid of $14.2 million, made an overpayment of $35,000 to Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent, on the premium for the performance bond.

The senator called this "a kickback" and "a payoff" and said, on the basis of a statement from Reynolds that $25,000 of it was channeled through Baker into the 1960 Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund.

Williams displayed a copy of a $109,205.60 check from McCloskey's company to Reynolds. He said this compared with the $73,631.28 "actually owed" for the premium and commission on the stadium performance bond.

The White House announced homes.

57 Tunnel From East to West Berlin

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — Fifty-seven East Germans escaped to West Berlin this weekend through a long tunnel dug under the Red wall, the West Berlin government reported today. East Germany said one of its border guards was shot dead during the escape and called it murder.

It was believed to be one of the biggest mass escapes since the Red wall was erected in the summer of 1961.

All the refugees, 23 men, 31 women and 3 children, came through unhurt. Red guards found the tunnel just after the escape and fired submachine guns into the passageway.

The East German Defense Ministry said the border guard was killed "by aimed shots from armed bandits" who had penetrated into East German territory through the tunnel.

It seemed possible that the guard was in the tunnel and fell under the fire of his comrades.

Informed sources said this was believed to be the third successful tunnel exploit recently. West Berlin authorities try to keep escape methods secret.

The latest tunnel was under Bernauerstrasse on the French sector border. When it was learned Red guards had found the tunnel the city government announced the escape.

Since last Saturday the refugees had crept through the tunnel in small groups.

The city government said just before the operation was to end four East German soldiers and three civilians drove up to the eastern end of the tunnel. A few seconds later west police heard several blasts from sub-machine guns.

That was 12:30 this morning. Within 15 minutes the east end of the tunnel was surrounded by East German troops.

Tunnel escapes have become less frequent in recent months after East Germans discovered several of them before they could be used and arrested West Germans who were digging them.

The largest previous tunnel Sept. 2 that Johnson had ordered an FBI investigation. McCloskey issued a statement saying he had paid Reynolds the exact amount for which he was billed.

DANVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Yell County Sheriff Herman McCormick was attacked by two men he tried to arrest Saturday night for suspicion questioning in a hit and run case.

McCormick was hospitalized with cuts and bruises from the attack, which happened outside an ice cream parlor at Plainview.

State Trooper Richard Powell said the men attacked McCormick as he tried to get them into his car. A passerby and the ice cream parlor operator came to the sheriff's aid, Powell said.

The men were held in the County Jail at Danville under $2,000 bond.

Gentry Discusses Gambling Issues

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Former Arkansas Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry will discuss the issues of legalized casino gambling in Garland County Thursday night in a statewide television program.

Richard W. Wootton, president of the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, said the program would be sponsored by the chamber and is scheduled from 8:30 to 9 p.m.

Wootton said it was felt that the people of the state should have an opportunity to hear about gambling from Gentry since during his tenure as attorney general he attempted to close down illegal gambling at Hot Springs.

Gentry recently endorsed passage of the gambling amendment and said he did so on the grounds that it is impossible to keep illegal gambling operations closed.

Prior to the weekend's mass escape, conservative estimates had set the number of tunnel escapees at between 300 and 400.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Gleason's move to Miami has not — so far — made any difference in the format and quality of his show. The only thing that seems faintly new is that Joe the Bartender now is parting his hair on the side instead of the middle.

"The Defenders" last week wound up a delightful two-part story, full of warmth and gentle humor.

"Gunsmoke" continues about as usual, except Matt Dillon's sidekick is an unshaven fellow who isn't as appealing as Chester. And I'm worried about Kitty, Matt's unloved lady friend for these 10 years. She has taken to drinking neat whiskey after all this years of toying with a mug of beer. Maybe Doc better speak to her.

Many of the old shows are back and in pretty good shape.

But some evil spirits are apparently affecting too many of the new programs. With a few very notable exceptions, the quality of the new shows seems way off. The stories are often silly and dull and the characters are just not interesting.

The general level of network television is so pedestrian that on a recent night a showing of a fairly recent feature movie romped off with all the ratings honors.

The problem is compounded by we viewers who have seen so many programs on so many nights that we are becoming harder and harder to please.

A case in point was Friday night's Bob Hope Theater on NBC, a piece of light-hearted idiosyncrasy called "Think Pretty," which provided some pretty brittle bones to support an appearance by Fred Astaire and Barrie Chase. Occasionally, Astaire and Miss Chase would break into a dance and while that lasted, all was well. Then we'd go back to a silly story about an adventure in the record-making business.

Maybe if so many of us were not entertained sated we might find television a lot better than we think it is.

Jury Poll Turns Out Favorable

OAKHURST, Calif. (AP) — The defense attorney was polling the jury Thursday in Grub Gulch District Court after return of a guilty verdict.

He asked the only man on the jury, Benjamin Lemon, how he voted. Replied Lemon: "Not guilty." The court was in an uproar.

"They made me do it," cried Lemon, pointing to the 11 women jurors.

The stunned prosecution beat a hasty retreat and reduced the charge to reckless driving. B. W. Edwards, who reported on the state workshop she had attended in Conway and presented an outline of local council projects for the ensuing year. A Memorial Service for Mrs. L. D. Barnum, a recently deceased member who was active in the club for many years, was held at the meeting.

After the 1965 engagement calendars were distributed to the 14 present, the hostess served dessert and coffee.

"DEAR ABBY"

INDIGNANTLY YOURS!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: Some woman signed "Boiling Over" complained because she, a blood relative, rode in the fifth car behind the hearse at her mother's funeral while "relatives by marriage" rode in cars ahead of her. You said, in your opinion, husbands and wives belonged together at funerals in order to console and comfort each other. I am with you, Abby. My husband was only a son-in-law, but my mother couldn't have loved him more if he had been her own son. In fact, he treated my mother better during her lifetime than her own sons did. We didn't even think about how far back we were in the funeral procession of cars at her funeral. And any one who did, couldn't have been mourning very much for the one they had come to lay to rest.

Dear Abby: "Boiling Over" infuriated me! I am one of 16 children, and I was always accused of being my mother's favorite. At her funeral I rode in the LAST car of relatives and I couldn't have cared less if I had been in the last car of the whole procession. I knew in my heart that I was the closest to my mother. Why! Because all the rest of them waited until the last week of her lingering illness to rush to her side. I was there the moment I learned she was ill. And I was there every day for as long as she needed me. "THE LAST CAR"

Dear Abby: Your opinion on funeral protocol was correct. The spouse of the deceased always rides in the first family car behind the hearse. Should there be a large number of children, the proper sequence is as follows: The eldest daughter, her husband and their children ride in the first car. The other married daughters and their families follow, giving priority to age. Next come the unmarried daughters. Then the eldest married son and his wife and family, followed by the other married sons and their families. Then the unmarried sons. Variations occur, but this is generally the accepted order.

Very Truly yours,
TAMPA FUNERAL DIRECTOR

Fights Youth Drinking in Pennsylvania

By ALAN KAPLAN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The battle against teen-age drinking is going well in Pennsylvania, thanks to a 1963 law and alert police and tavern operators.

A boy or girl under 21 may still be able to drink a beer at a party or use false identification to get a highball at a bar, but because of the new law he risks a trip to jail or a stiff fine. Before, the worst punishment could be a light penalty for disorderly conduct.

"I think this law could stamp out our problem with minors in three years," says Bill T. Plastino, Lancaster tavern operator. His comment is typical of most of those who face young people across a bar and have to decide whether he or she really is of age.

The new law stipulates that minors—those under 21—who attempt to purchase, consume, possess or transport alcohol, liquor or malt-brewed beverages are subject to fines between $25 and $100 or 30 days in jail or both.

This puts the punishment directly on the juvenile. Before the new law, tavern-owners were dealt the worst punishment. Some innocently served underage patrons who produced fake or forged identification cards.

"We ask for cards," said Kenneth D. Koehel of Lancaster, "sometimes several of them, and we also try to judge the ages. But some of these kids are really tough to judge. Girls, particularly, are apt to fool you."

Koehel was fined $150 in 1962 for selling beer to a minor. It almost made him quit the taproom business, because of the risk.

Today, he's high in praise of the new law which he says has "cut down the number of minors coming in here trying to buy alcoholic beverages."

Detective Capt. David M. Rineer of Lancaster said the law has made it easier for officers to deal with under-age drinkers.

"Many of our men now come across infractions while carrying out routine duties. When this happens, we have the authority to make an arrest with the knowledge that a prosecution is justified," he says.

"It's the best law ever passed," says Richard Hagerty, Warren County deputy sheriff. He asserts the statute not only deters youthful liquor purchasers, but it is equally effective in unveiling their suppliers.

The reason is that minors who are unwilling to disclose information about where they obtained liquor or beer are threatened with stiffer sentences. This generally loosens their tongues, says Hagerty.

In Bellefonte, police make spot checks of automobiles with young drivers Saturday nights. "If we find a case of beer in the trunk we make an arrest," says Police Chief Eugene Stine. "There's none of this stuff about one of the parents leaving it there without the knowledge of the child."

Stine said offenders between 18 and 21 are taken directly to a local magistrate who can mete out punishments promptly.

Lancaster Alderman William A. Hull Jr. says he judges each case individually with first offenders fined $25 and the second offenders tabbed with $50.

"I make it a point to inform each offender that the penalty will probably be greater if he or she is a repeater on the same charge," says Hull.

Statistics compiled by Pennsylvania's Liquor Control Board show that the law has cut in half charges against taprooms for selling to minors.

Young people make these gripes:

"When we leave school, we are expected to assume the responsibilities of adults," said a 19-year-old girl who was arrested when police found liquor in the car in which she was a passenger.

"If we are to assume the responsibilities of adults why shouldn't we have the privileges of adults?"

Another youth, also unidentified, said:

"You're just unlucky if you get caught, that's all. Sometimes you go for months or even years without getting caught. I think the problem would be solved if the age limit was 18 because it wouldn't be a big deal anymore."

The major argument in favor of a lowered drinking age, as far as minors are concerned, is that 18-year-olds are eligible for the draft.

"If you must register at 18 and are liable to be sent overseas to fight and die for your country," one boy asks, "why can't you buy a beer in your country?"

Pennsylvania police answer: "Because it is against the law."

Soviet Reds Force Way Into Rooms

The United States has protested the "flagrant violation" of the diplomatic immunity of the men who were traveling with a British colleague on a trip to Tokyo and Hong Kong. The Americans are due back in Moscow in a few days.

A State Department spokesman said that details of exactly what happened are lacking but that he had no evidence that any of the four westerners was injured.

Civil Rights Appeals to High Court

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a speeded-up schedule, hears arguments today on the first two appeals involving constitutionality of a section of the new Civil Rights Act.

Departing from tradition by calling for arguments on the opening day of a new term, the court indicated it felt an early decision should be reached on the first challenges made of the 1964 statute.

The two appeals both had their political overtones in the presidential election campaign, could be decided before Nov. 3.

First arguments are on an appeal by the Heart of Atlanta Motel from a decision by a three-judge federal court in Atlanta. The decision was that the public accommodations section of the new law is unconstitutional as applied to the motel.

Next the high tribunal hears arguments on an appeal by the Justice Department from a ruling by another three-judge court in Birmingham, Ala. The Birmingham court said the section is unconstitutional as applied to Ollie's Barbecue, a restaurant in that city.

The section states that "all persons shall be entitled to full and equal enjoyment of goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages and accommodations of any place of public accommodation, as defined in this section, without discrimination on the ground of race, color, religion or national origin."

The two appeals present the question how far the section reaches under the authority of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. The interstate commerce power was the main legal basis behind congressional adoption of the section.

The Atlanta motel, headed by Moreton Rolleston Jr., an Atlanta attorney, is located adjacent to an interstate highway. It was agreed in the case that 75 per cent of its guests were from states other than Georgia. The three-judge court in Atlanta, in this first attack on the new law, said the section is constitutional under the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce.

Ollie's Barbecue, owned by Ollie McClung Sr. and his son, Ollie Jr., is located several blocks from the nearest interstate route. The three-judge court in Birmingham, giving the new law its first setback, said Congress may control interstate commerce "only when those activities have such a close and substantial relation to interstate commerce that their control is essential or appropriate to protect that commerce from practices within a state which burden its freedom or obstruct its flow."

Piggy, Piggy Is Best Hog Call

POMONA, Calif. (AP)—Adults with lungs of leather took turns bellowing at a small herd of disdainful swine at the Los Angeles County Fair's hog-calling championship.

"Whoop, pigs!" yelled one. "Soo-ey, soo-ey!" hollered another.

Not a pig moved. Then up stood a slim, blond boy named Johnny.

"Pigs?" he cried, in a clear, young voice. "Piggy, piggy?"

Half a dozen big porkers lunged across the pig pavilion in answer to the call, oinking happily. The crowd applauded.

That was how 4-year-old John Mangrith, of Pomona, won the 1964 hog-calling trophy Wednesday.

Runner-up was the 1955 champion, Sarah E. Shaffstall of Cucamonga. She is 85.

The winner's father is an agent of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, and admits to calling hogs, now and then, as a hobby.

Among those who failed to place was a Marine from Camp Pendleton, Calif., who said he practiced hog calling at night in the barracks.

An expert explained Johnny's victory this way:

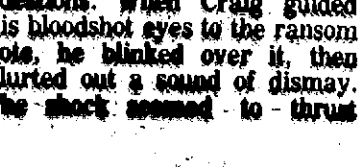

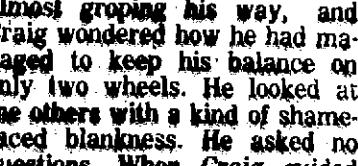

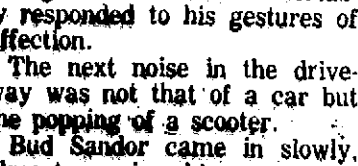

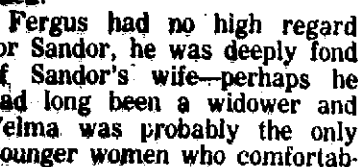

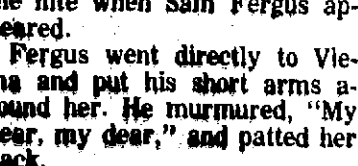

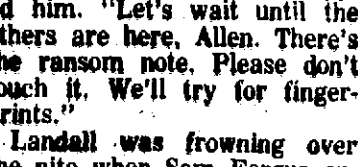

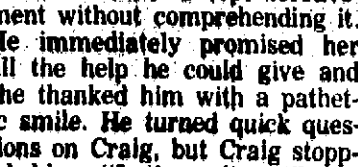

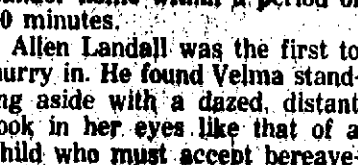

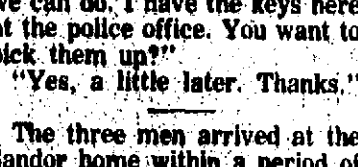

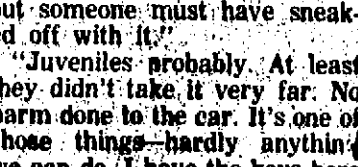

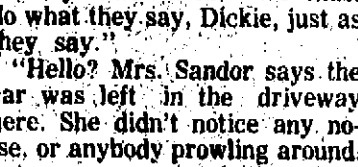

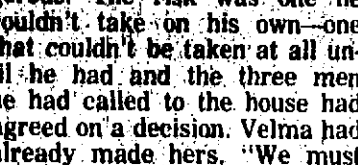

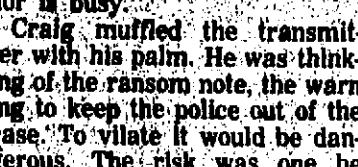

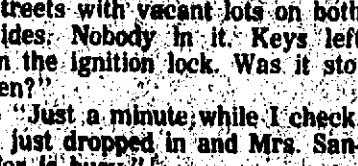

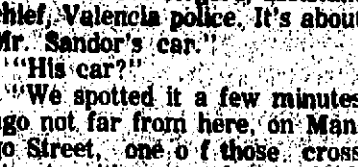

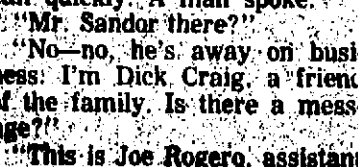

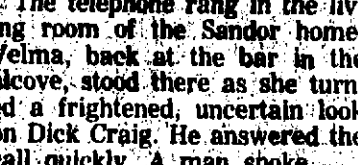

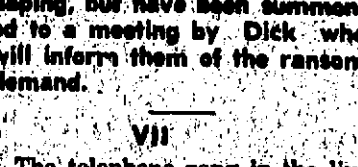

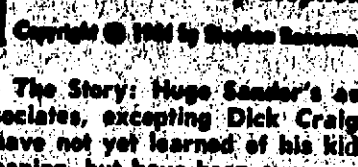

"It ain't the volume that counts, but the appeal of your voice. You got to make the hogs think you have something for them."

Crime Rate

Bob Thomas at the Movies

AP Movie-Television Writer

Results are encouraging, says Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, president of the pay-television venture.

Subscription Television launched its ambitious California program two months ago by hooking up patrons in Santa Monica — and later, San Francisco — for shows of big league baseball, culture, off-Broadway plays and year-old movies.

The Wall Street Journal reported last week that the firm had lopped off 143 of its 185 sales people, that orders were lagging, and that subscribers weren't spending as much on programming as anticipated.

Caught in his Santa Monica office between plane trips, fast-moving, big-thinking Pat Weaver appeared far from discouraged. He explained that his company had leaped into operation prematurely in order to combat the anti-pay-television forces that are sponsoring proposition 13 on the Nov. 3 California ballot. It would make pay-television "contrary to public policy."

"It's easy to make people afraid of something that doesn't exist," argued Weaver. "That's why we had to get in operation."

Admittedly, he has had disappointments. His star attractions, the San Francisco Giants and the Los Angeles Dodgers, ran out of steam. He was not able to acquire brand-new movies, as he hoped. The subscribers in the average income Santa Monica area have not spent as much for shows as expected.

"But that is partly our own doing," said Weaver. "On the one hand we have not had the programming we expected. And we have not promoted the programming as much as we could."

"We would much rather take in less and have a record of no cancellations. So far no installation has been canceled except for death or moving away."

Weaver said the 6,000 hookups had been made, a total of 25,000 sales have been made in the licensed areas, and 40,000 orders have been received. The cutback in sales personnel was to allow the installations to catch up with sales, he said, as well as to await the outcome of the November election.

He is hopeful that the measure will be defeated, but added he is ready to move $10 million to $11 million in hardware to other areas if the vote goes against him. He said numerous cities are interested.

At the tax office an official said: "We had to see the accountant anyway to collect some forms. So we collected the twopence at the same time."

"Now they've got the twopence but I still haven't got a receipt," Mrs. Marshall complained.

Hope Defeats Malvern 13-7 to Take District 4-AA Lead

LEFT — The capacity crowd that saw Hope win the crucial football game against Malvern here Friday night for the leadership of District 4-AA had an added thriller — the appearance of the University of Arkansas' Razorback Marching Band. Here they are at the half, majorettes out front, and as many of the 125 band members as the big telephoto lens could squeeze in. The Razorback Band is under the direction of Richard A. Worthington.

RIGHT — Hope Halfback Ronnie Ingram on his touchdown run of 62 yards — only to have it nullified by a penalty. The play started with a pass from Quarterback Vince Massanelli.

RIGHT — Quarterback Massanelli (10) on a keeper Made 7 yards for Hope from his own 36 to the 43 marker.

RIGHT — This is Hope's second touchdown — which won the ball game. Halfback Jerry Burnett (27), took a pass from Buddy Jordan and raced 30 yards to the south goal, with 4:03 left in the contest. At that, Malvern's LHB Steve Efird (22) just did miss the tackle.

Editor's Note: This is a bad picture — but good or bad a shot of the winning play gets in the paper anyway. This one was out of camera and flash range on the far side of the field and the excessive enlargement that was required brought up the coarse "grain" of the film along with the players. Anyway The Star's big telephoto lens got back from St. Louis in time for the Malvern game — which was certainly something to photograph, a thriller from start to finish, with the smaller Hope team turning back the big and speedy Leopards.
